AYER'S The only SARSAPARILLA Awarded at the WORLD'S FAIR CHICAGO 1893

Why Was It

that Ayer's Sarsaparilla, out of the great number of similar preparations manufactured throughout the world, was the only medicine of the kind admitted at the World's Fair, Chicago? And why was it that, in spite of the united efforts of the manufacturers of other preparations, the decision of the World's Fair Directors was not reversed?

BECAUSE

According to RULE 15—"Articles that are in any way dangerous or offensive, also patent medicines, nostrums, and empirical preparations, whose ingredients are concealed, will not be admitted to the Exposition," and, therefore—

Because Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine, not a nostrum, and not a secret preparation.

Because its proprietors had nothing to conceal when questioned as to the formula from which it is compounded.

Because it is all that it is claimed to be—a Compound Concentrated Extract of Sarsaparilla, and in every sense, worthy the indorsement of this most important committee, called together for passing upon the manufactured products of the entire world.

WE ASKED CONSENT.

We asked consent, my love and I,
All in the early morning,
A golden promise lit the sky,
The dewy earth adorning.
The day was just beginning,
The hour of all for winning,
But the old rash lifted up his head
And scanned the sky and briefly said:
"'Tis nae the time for coortin.
Nay, nay," said he.

We asked consent, my love and I.
The maiden moon was slender,
A starry mist rained down the sky,
And the eve was new and tender.
The mother, she lay sleeping
Where stars their watch were keeping.
The old man sighed and bowed his head.
"She's but a bairn—the child," he said,
"But life's aye short for lovin,
Aye, aye," said he.

A PRISON CHAPLAIN.

"I congratulate you, Jim, from my very heart, old fellow, though how you've managed to get so far ahead of us all I can't imagine! Vicar of S——! Why, it's a position even I never dreamed of, and as for you, I always looked upon you, old man, as a regular prison chaplain and nothing else. No offense, Jim; you know what I mean."

It was indeed with a shock of astonishment and almost incredulity that I had read in my morning paper, only an hour before, that the Rev. James Bourn, M. A., of Balliol college, Oxford, at present chaplain of the jail at Smithley, had been appointed by the trustees to the important post of vicar of S——, vacant owing to its previous occupant having been made a bishop. S—— was one of the largest towns of the north, and its vicar was always a man of importance in the church. The trustees had had some of the ablest of church clergymen applying for the post, and that my old friend Jim should get it—though no one valued his gifts and zeal more than I did—seemed to me almost incomprehensible. Had it been private patronage one could have understood it, but public competition, and against such competitors!

Jim smiled at my words. We were again seated in my study.

"Yes, Howson," said he, "I thought it would give you a turn."

Then he relapsed into silence, but as I saw he had something further to tell, I simply sat waiting for it, without speaking.

"Howson," pursued he, "you know I've some curious notions and secrets, don't you? You often think them wrong, but, though not boasting, I generally find them right in the end. You recollect my last story and theory, don't you? That came out all right, didn't it?"

I nodded acquiescence.

"Well, old fellow, this is another, and it has come out all right, too, thank God. No secret you can have of mine can be greater than the one you hold, so I may tell you this. It's to be between us only, and another who necessarily holds it but will keep it safe enough. I know you've not agreed with me when I've held that this dogging of prisoners—often only once sinned—by the detectives after their release from jail is altogether bad, but I've always said it was, and I stick to it. As soon as any prisoner really shows penitence and reformation in earnest I do certainly think he ought to have a chance and be left alone. I'm certain there would be fewer criminals."

"I've heard that doctrine before from you, Jim, but what has that to do with your promotion?"

"Listen," said he.

"It was when I was at Lowmarket, about eight years ago, that I set out about 10 o'clock p. m., as my usual custom was, for a walk before retiring for the night. There is, as you know, a footpath that runs all round the jail walls, above a mile long, and it was along this path I always went. The night being fine and starlight, I took my sister, who was visiting us, with me. You remember Muriel, a girl of about 18 then? We walked along, chatting gayly, until we came to the back of the jail, about half a mile from my residence, and then, whether it was owing to the heat of the evening—a hot August day it had been—or probably from natural weakness, for Muriel was not as strong then as she is now, I can't say, but all of a sudden she said, 'Jim, I don't feel well!' and before I could do anything more she had fallen to the ground in a faint.

"I had fancied for some few seconds before this happened that there was a slight noise and rustle on the other side of the prison wall, but had set it down to rats, which were always about the brook which flows past. As Muriel fell I heard another slight noise like a dull thud, but was too anxious then to trouble about it. I bent over and rubbed her hands, supporting her as well as I could. You may guess how delighted I was to hear steps coming toward me, though the walker was yet hidden by the angle of the wall. I needed help badly. The newcomer was a soldier, by his clothes, but he stopped suddenly on seeing us and seemed inclined to turn back. Seeing I had noticed him, however, and observing the situation, after a slight hesitation he advanced. I asked him to help me back with Muriel to my house, which he did. He was unusually quiet, and though I gave him a recital of what had happened said nothing. By the time we got home Muriel was about right again and apologized for giving us so much trouble. We both thanked the soldier for his kindness, and though he would have gone on almost forced him to come inside. We all sat down in the dining room.

"Hark! What was that sound? Again! Again! The soldier grew pale and started, but I knew well what it was, though seldom heard. It was the boom of the prison cannon, telling that a prisoner had escaped. Immediately all was alarm. We could hear the warders and the horses dashing hither and thither after the fugitive, and I went to the door to ask who had escaped. I learned it was No. 285, a young man, doing five years for forgery, his first offense, and a prisoner I had much pitied. His crime had been committed to save a mother and sister from almost starvation, which could not be kept off by the 18 shillings a week he had earned, and the judge had, in my opinion, been unusually severe on him. By his gentleness and attention he had gained my friendship, but the imprisonment was telling on him, and his mother and sister were well nigh heartbroken.

"I felt sorry he had tried to escape, as it would go hard with him if captured, and I returned sadly to my room and companions. The soldier, almost for the first time, lifted up involuntarily his eyes and looked straight at me. Good heavens, it was No. 285!

"He saw I recognized him, and remained motionless. For a few seconds, though indeed it seemed to me a lifetime, I sat utterly prostrated, not knowing what to do. What would you have done, Howson? I could not call in the warders and say, 'Here is your man, No. 285,' for he was my guest. I myself had invited him in, even against his will. Besides he had remained, even at such fearful risk to himself, to help me and Muriel in our necessity! Could you have surrendered him, Arthur? Moreover, I knew how he had repented—how keen his desire to see those two whose lives were dimmed for ever. Yet my duty to the country, to the government, to the prison—what about that? I sent Muriel to bed, and with an affectionate good night to me and thanks to her benefactor she went.

"It cost me a long struggle, Arthur, and the clock hands pointed to nearly 12 before my decision was settled. Then, turning to the fugitive, who had never spoken so far, I said, as if ignoring altogether the recognition, though I knew he saw it all:

"'I thank you, sir, for your kind aid. As it is now very late'—I emphasized this—'you had better stay overnight and go tomorrow; any time you please'—another emphasis—'and I trust your future career will be as honorable and noble as I should like it to be.'

"He bent his head solemnly, said, 'Thank you very much for your kindness, which I shall never forget,' and followed me to the bedroom.

"No one knew he was in the house but myself. I attended to him, and at dusk next evening he departed.

"I need not tell you that the search of the prison authorities, Howson, was all in vain, and of course in a very short time No. 285 was practically forgotten by everybody, the police most of all, though I myself had always half expected to have a note from him some day, saying how he was getting on. But it was a vain hope.

"And now comes the curious part of my story. I have begun lately, certainly more so since my marriage, to get somewhat tired of the dull routine of prison chaplaincy and most of all for Ella's sake. She has found it very distasteful this last year or so. So I have been looking out for a benefice, Howson, but I scarcely need tell you I never dreamed of such a post as vicar of S——. I should as soon have expected being made archbishop of Canterbury. Yet when I heard it was vacant, something within me impelled me to apply for it, and I did so. There were, as you know, a tremendous number of applications, some from men whom I had long learned to respect as lights of the church, and nobody was more surprised than myself when I found I was one of the eight selected candidates.

"It seems, then, that a committee was chosen to go and hear these eight preach, without their knowing it, at their churches, and some of them heard me at St. Polycarp's about three weeks ago. Thus two of us were selected out of the eight and appeared before the trustees some ten days ago. After many questions and explanations the trustees voted, we being in the next room, and it was found there were four for the other gentleman and four for myself. The mayor of S——, who was chairman of the trustees, had been unexpectedly called away that morning, and in his absence the gentleman who had been placed in the chair seemed unwilling to give a casting vote under the circumstances. The meeting was therefore postponed for a week, and we were called up again on Monday. My opponent had the first interview; I followed.

"The mayor was in the chair. Naturally I felt somewhat nervous, but you may imagine, Howson, what I really felt when I saw that the mayor of S—— was No. 285! It was not at first I recognized him, but when he spoke the voice seemed familiar, and I gradually traced the resemblance, much altered though he was by his beard and whiskers. It was a mutual recognition, but he was much calmer than I was, and acted as though I was a perfect stranger, in fact as I acted toward him on that never to be forgotten night.

"I soon found by the way his fellows spoke of him how much he was respected and esteemed. The interview was soon over, and I went out half dazed, I must admit, yet not wholly sad.

"In a few minutes I was called in again, and informed that, by five votes to four, I had been elected to the vacant post, and was asked if I would accept the offer of it. Of course I accepted it, and thanked them all. I need not tell you whose the fifth vote was, Howson, though I may say that I have since learned his mother was dead when he sought her eight years ago, and his sister died soon afterward."

There was silence in my study for a minute or two, then I got up, shook his hand again in congratulation, and said: "You're right again, Jim, old man! It is better to give them a chance than to be everlastingly dogging at them till life is a curse. Don't fear your secret, and may God bless the new vicar of S——."—London Tit-Bits.

No Tick Here.

"Why don't you wind that clock and set it going?" asked a bad customer at a country grocery store.

"That clock is a sign," said the grocer, and the customer studied it out for himself before he left the store.—Detroit Free Press.

LABRADOR'S COAST.

Barren Shores, Rolling Surge and Many Icebergs Make It Dangerous.

The most northerly lighthouse on the coast of this continent stands on Belle isle, at the head of the straits of that name, a little northeast of Newfoundland. By what freak of taste it was called Belle isle I cannot say, for even the old navigators had such a horror of it that on their charts they marked it with the figure of a demon.

The morning the little mail steamer on which I cruised "down on the Labrador," as the Newfoundlanders say, plunged and rolled past it through the surge the rugged mass of rock crouched there as if ready to seize its prey of ships and human lives. The surf, unheard at our distance, flashed around its base like a long row of glistening teeth. A huge iceberg had drifted in and lay stranded at one end of the island; far up on the rocks was the lighthouse; on a shelf below stood a little hut, with provisions, for shipwrecked sailors; the gray morning mists made these look heavy and sodden, and altogether this glimpse of Belle isle was the most desolate scene I had ever beheld. Over our bow the barren coast of Labrador was faintly outlined, and as the last lighthouse on the continent dropped astern I felt that we were indeed drawing away from civilization, and this feeling was strengthened when, as we turned our prow northward, we sighted the vanguard of the seemingly endless procession of huge icebergs drifting slowly down in single file from the mysterious regions of the north.

We had met with single bergs along the Newfoundland coast, but off Labrador they became a constant and unspeakably grand feature in the seaward view. I doubt if they can be seen anywhere else except in arctic and antarctic waters in such numbers, variety and grandeur. The branch of the gulf stream which pushes its way into the Arctic ocean has sufficient force left when it is reflected by the frozen northern boundary of that sea to send an icy current down along the Labrador coast. Practically all the bergs that break loose from the ice sheathed shores of Greenland are borne southward by this current. One morning, when I went upon deck, I counted no less than 135 huge ones. Some of these were great solid blocks of ice; others were arched with numerous Gothic passageways; some reached with spirelike grace high up into the air. All reflected with prismatic glory the rays of the sun.—Gustav Kobbe in St. Nicholas.

Hard and Bitter Wills.

It was remarked by a writer long ago that "there is no revenge so hard and bitter as that of an old man," and it is one of the astonishing perversities of many natures that the longer they live the harder they hug their possessions. The most disinterested affection is passed over, the most faithful and most valuable services are slightly and grudgingly rewarded. This mental and moral disease notably afflicts the richest. The Marquis d'Aligre was a singular example. His will was concocted with a special desire to disappoint and insult his relatives, friends and servants. To the first it said: "As for you, my relatives who have been so long spelling upon this fortune on which 'I had concentrated all my affections,' you are not going to touch a penny of it, and not one of you will be able to boast that you have squandered the millions which the old Marquis d'Aligre had taken so many years to hoard up."

Sir Robert Bevil, one of James I's officials, did not even spare his wife. "I give unto my wife tenne shillings in respect she took her sonnes part against me and did anymate and comfort him afterwards. These will not be forgotten." And the Earl of Stafford, who married the daughter of the Duc de Grammont, wrote: "To the worst of women, Claude Charlotte de Grammont, unfortunately my wife, guilty as she is of all crimes, I leave five and forty brass halfpence, which will buy a pullet for her supper. A better gift than her father can make her."—Westminster Review.

Divorce In Burma.

Suppose a Burmese husband and wife quarrel and determine to separate. The wife, who always does all the marketing, goes out and buys two little candles of equal length, which are made especially for this use. She brings them home. She and her husband sit down on the floor and light them simultaneously. One candle stands for him, the other for her. The one whose candle burns out first rises and goes out of the house forever, with nothing but what he or she may have on. The one whose candle has survived the longest, even by a second, takes everything. So the divorce and division of the property, if you can call that a division, are settled.—Philadelphia Times.

With the Accent on the Voters.

Mrs. Meriwether of Memphis says: "We asked that the girls of our state be protected until they were 18 years old, the law extending that gracious protection up to the ripe age of 10. We fought a desperate battle for six years, and when the age was finally raised to 16 the women who had stood the brunt of that long battle saw it proved beyond all peradventure that no 'influence' of theirs had won the day, but the simple fact that six years of bitter experience had taught them the only weapon that would kill, and they used it. They buried the senate chamber and representatives hall under voters' petitions and came out victors."

Stephen A. Douglas had a magnificent bass voice that would have made his fortune on the opera stage. The manner in which he bellowed forth "Fellow citizens!" at the beginning of a speech was never equaled by any public speaker.

Beaconsfield's face was a puzzle even to his intimates. It was impossible, by watching it, to gain any insight into his feelings or emotions.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED,

A FEW MORE

Opinions of Eminent Critics on the Performances of the Famous Violinist Bernhard Mollenhauer.

MENDELSSOHN'S CONCERT. — The solo attraction of the evening, of course, was Mr. Mollenhauer, the violinist, and a true son of his father. Mr. Mollenhauer's easy grasp of string difficulties, his broad, pure tone, original but true phrasing and sparkling color, make him one of the best as well as the most popular violinists of the present.—St. Paul and Minneapolis Pioneer Press.

THE MENDELSSOHN'S CONCERT.—The performance of the violinist, Mollenhauer, was simply immense, and the enthusiasm of the audience knew no bounds. He was recalled again and again, and each time won new laurels.—Daily Globe, St. Paul, Minn.

Dock das Schœnste bleibt uns noch vorbehalten. Es sind die Violin Solis des Herr Bernhard Mollenhauer. Der Ruf, der ihm voraneilt, berechtigt zu hohen Erwartungen. Aber wohl Niemand der ihm zugehort, der nich in seinen Erwartungen ubertroffen. Die Art und Weise des Vortrags erinnert uns unwillkurlich an Wilhelmj's Klassische Ruhe, und dabei ermangelt er nicht der Wieniawski-schen Warme oder des Remeny's-schen Feurs.—Minnehahe Sontags-blatt.

By his accuracy, delicacy and beauty of playing, Mollenhauer surprised his hearers. No gymnastics, no trickery, but in their place were evidence of careful study, practice and genus.—Herald.

The following demand was made by City Assessor Vanderhoof on the Board for a county map, which occasioned considerable discussion, but action was deferred to a later date.

SANTA ROSA, June 3, 1895.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Sonoma County—DEAR SIRS: On January 16th and on May 10, 1895, I addressed communications to your honorable Board and quoted sections of the revenue laws which require you to furnish my office with proper maps and plat sheets necessary for an intelligent assessment of the real property in this county. So far your actions have been entirely negative. I am informed that some of your members claim that no "formal demand" has been made. I felt that the law, itself, was a demand and worded my communications in as simple language as I knew how.

That there may be no future misunderstanding I now demand of you action this day and date that will give me a full and complete set of maps and plat sheets to be made on a plan prescribed by the State Board of Equalization, and to be complete and ready for delivery to me by February 1, 1896.

I again call your attention to section 3658 of the revenue laws of this State.

Very respectfully yours,
M. V. VANDERHOOF.
County Assessor.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The chief function of the kidneys is to separate from the blood, in its passage through them, of certain impurities and watery particles which make their final exit through the bladder. The retention of these, in consequence of inactivity of the kidneys, is productive of Bright's disease, dropsy, Diabetes, albuminuria and other maladies with a fatal tendency. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a highly sanctioned diuretic and blood depurent, impels the kidneys when inactive to renew their sifting function, and strain from the vital current impurities which infest it and threaten their own existence as organs of the body. Catarrh of the bladder, gravel and retention of the urine are also maladies arrested or averted by this benign promoter and restorative of organic action. Malaria, rheumatism, constipation, biliousness and dyspepsia also yield to the Bitters, which is also speedily beneficial to the weak and nervous.

WM. CARRIGER WILL CASE.

The Trial, After Many Postponements, Now Being Held in Judge Dougherty's Court.

The contest over the will of the late Wm. Carriger, which has been before the courts the past three years at last bids fair to come to a close. The case was called in Judge Dougherty's court last Tuesday and the following jurors were drawn to try the suit :

B. M. Spencer, H. Prindle, J. J. Poat, Sam Gilliam, B. W. Hunt, A. H. Ingram, J. O. Cooper, Will Tod, W. J. Volk, J. T. Hill, Don Mills, W. J. Doggett.

The contestant is Mrs. Kate Carriger, widow of Wm. Carriger, who was accidentally shot and killed by his brother Boggs Carriger about three years ago.

Just one year prior to the tragedy Wm. Carriger was wedded to Miss Kate O'Brien, a neighbor's daughter. Not many months after the blissful wedding Carriger and his young wife became estranged. The lady contends that her husband's mind had been poisoned by false stories conveyed to him by Boggs Carriger and which reflected on her moral rectitude. Boggs Carriger was a widower and his three children made their home with William Carriger and wife. The latter objected to their presence in her household, believing their blood relatives should be their custodians. At any rate, a bitterness was engendered between Boggs Carriger and Mrs. William Carriger, which had its culmination in a separation between William Carriger and his wife.

At that period William Carriger made a will disposing of his estate to his relatives and omitting his wife as a sharer in the same. In the meantime the wife instituted proceedings for a divorce.

While the divorce proceedings were pending Wm. Carriger died. His will was at the time locked in his lawyer's safe in Oakland. When its contents were revealed, the widow sued to have it set aside, claiming that it did not express the feelings or wishes of her late husband at the time of his death, and that its provisions, adverse to her, were the result of undue influences exerted by Boggs Carriger.

The jury returned a verdict in her favor, but the same was set aside by Judge Crawford, whose action was appealed from and sustained by the Supreme Court.

The estate is worth less than $10,000 and in the three years litigation it is said that the entire amount will have been spent by both sides in contesting its disposition. Both parties to the suit have a large array of legal talent behind them.

Our City Dads.

The City Trustees held their regular monthly meeting last Wednesday evening, Trustees Seipp, Bulotti, Hartin and Poppe being present.

The bill of Louis Breitenbach for $23.93 for graveling streets came up for discussion. It was moved by Trustee Bulotti and seconded by Trustee Hartin that the bill be rejected in part and $12.75 allowed. The motion prevailed. Mr. Breitenbach says he will sue the city for the balance.

A defective culvert on Germany street was ordered to be repaired by the Street Committee.

On motion of Trustee Hartin hitching posts were ordered to be erected around the Plaza.

On motion of Trustee Bulotti the owners of property facing the Plaza were notified to clear the outer edge of the sidewalks of grass and weeds.

Upon motion of Trustee Hartin the Board accepted an invitation to participate in the Fourth of July parade in this place and to turn out as a body.

City Marshal Robin was authorized to appoint three deputies to serve on July 4th, their compensation to be $3 each.

Trustee Poppe was authorized to demand and receive from certain parties benches belonging to the city which they have in their possession.

Mrs. J. A. Poppe was granted permission to erect a watering trough opposite her store on the Plaza side of the street.

G. S. Harris was allowed $18 per month for sprinkling the streets around the Plaza.

Ordinance No. 48, fixing water rates in Sonoma, was read the second time and adopted. The rate is the same as that of the past year.

Ordinance No. 49, amending the peddlers' license, was read the first time.

POISONED.

Miss Annie Bazoni's Sudden Death — Given Anconite by Mistake.

Miss Annie Bazoni, who was born and reared in this place, but who moved to San Francisco with her mother several years ago, died in that city early last Saturday morning from the effects of anconite liniment given her by mistake by Mrs. Waugaman with whom Miss Bazoni was living.

It appears that the unfortunate young lady, who was an expert bicyclist, while riding a wheel near Golden Gate Park was run down by a carriage and badly bruised. When she arrived home her hurts were so bad a physician was sent for. The doctor prescribed and left a bottle of anconite liniment to be applied externally to the bruises. During the night the girl became feverish and called to Mrs. Waugaman to give her some malt extract. That lady by some means or another got hold of the wrong bottle and gave Miss Bazoni a wineglass of the anconite. She was immediately seized with excrutiating pains in the stomach and died within an hour.

Fourth of July.

Hon. J. C. Sims of Santa Rosa will deliver the oration in this place on July 4th. Mr. Sims is an eloquent speaker and we congratulate the committee on their selection. The gentleman in accepting the invitation to join in with Sonoma to commemorate our natal day writes to A. F. Pauli, the Secretary of the Fourth of July Committee, that be "will proceed to get some exclusive rights on the American eagle so that he can squeeze him in the right place and make him raise his piercing voice on that day." The celebration in Sonoma this year promises to be a great success. The City Pavilion and Plaza, where the literary exercises are to be held, will be put in shape to accommodate a large number of people. In addition to the usual patriotic exercises there will be bicycle racing, athletic games, a parade, dancing in the pavilion, a display of fireworks and a grand ball at Union Hall in the evening. The general public have the assurance of the people of Sonoma that the best of order will be enforced throughout the day and evening.

A FAMOUS VIOLINIST.

Mr. Bernhard Mollenhauer, the eminent violinist, who is the subject of the following sketch taken from "Music," for October, 1892, will appear at the concert of the Sonoma Valley Band on June 28, 1895. Sonoma people may congratulate themselves on having an opportunity to hear such a celebrity right here at home :

"Mr. Bernhard Mollenhauer has the honor to belong to a very old and distinguished musical family. In 1847 and later there were two musicians, brothers, playing the violin who gained the friendship of Mendelssohn and Schumann at Leipsic. Medelssohn wrote of them : 'There are two brothers lately come to Leipsic who play violin duos in a marvelous manner. The younger, Edward, has the romantic beauty of an Italian Improvisatore ; the elder, of a less rugged type, already composes admirably. I have had them in my house frequently, and if the ear were deaf to their playing, the eye would be more than satisfied by the picture they make standing side by side in their dark beauty. And all this from Thuringia.' From Leipsic the brothers journeyed to Hamburg, where Bernhard was born.

"Bernhard Mollenhauer has fully maintained the traditions of the family. He was born in the old free city of Hamburg, in 1850. While he was yet an infant his parents removed to London, where his father was engaged in the orchestra of the Jullien, and with him they came to America in 1851. When the boy was five years old, the traditional family instrument was placed in his hands, his father having procured a little violin from London. Under his father's painstaking instruction the boy made such progress that by the time he was eight years of age his father considered him well enough advanced to appear in public as a 'wonder-child.' From that time to the present, Bernhard Mollenhauer has been before the public.

"Every season found a new engagement for this talented boy. When he was about fourteen he travelled as concert violinist with pianist Willie Pape. In 1865, when he was still only fifteen, he accompanied the lamented Gottschalk in his last American tour. This seems to have been one of the most interesting experiences of his life. Gottschalk was a most fascinating companion, full of spirit quick insight and a very ready wit, and generous to a degree. He was very fond of the young violinist, and in his letters gives expression to many sentiments of good-will and affection, highly interesting now that the hand that penned them is among the immortals.

"The Mollenhauer brothers were thorough musicians, as might be expected of pupils of Spohr, and friends of Medelssohn and Schumann. So the young Bernhard was put to the most severe theoretical studies, score reading and everything which appertains to the knowledge of a good musician and a sound conductor. In 1867 he travelled with the celebrated prima donna, Mme. Anna Bishop, but his greatest triumphs were attained as solo violinist with Gilmore's orchestra in the season of 1879-80. During this tour he made a great effect with the violin concerto of Max Bruch, which was then new.

"Of powerful and athletic build, full of vigor and elasticity, dark, bright eyes, ruddy complexion, and commanding forehead, and handsome, expressive face, he would claim the attention of a Reynolds, a Munkacsy, or a Healy. His imagination is almost constantly aflame. His mind and feelings act as by electricity, being easily kindled and fanned into a flame by the highly wrought motive temperament."

Items of a personal and social nature are thankfully received at this office and will be edited by Marjorie Dow.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Skinner are spending their honeymoon at the El Monte Hotel, Sausalito.

Vinegar and salt will strengthen a lame back.

The Sonoma Valley Band will give their concert in Union Hall this year.

Mrs. Dr. Carl Walliser and Miss Amie Maxwell were passengers Saturday on the Donahue train bound for the metropolis.

All the graduation gowns sanctioned by fashion have the skirts gathered around the waist, with the greater part of the gathers drawn towards the back. Many of these skirts measure seven yards around the bottom, though five yards and a half is the popular width. As a rule the skirts are not stiffened. They hang full, soft and graceful, without a suggestion of crinoline.

Mrs. P. H. Thompson, wife of our Supervisor, with her daughter Miss Florence, visited San Francisco last Saturday.

Horseman who attended the autopsy of Ralph Wilkes say they never saw a heart of such enormous size taken from a horse as that removed from Cononel Thayer's great stallion. He also had a remarkable set of lungs.

An exciting game of base-ball will be played between the Sonoma Nine and the Carneros Creek Base-ball Club on Sunday, June 16th. The contest will take place on the Isabella Mutch place adjoining the Convent, where a diamond has been laid off.

When the horse balks it may be because the collar hurts him, and does not fit. There are many reasons for balky horses, and the horse is in the right sometimes, especially when he is overloaded.

Preparations are being made for a grand closing entertainment of the Sonoma Grammer school, which will take place on June 21st.

There will be a grand ball after the Band Concert at Union Hall and dancing will be kept up until the "wee sma'" hours of the morning. A delicious supper will be served in the dining rooms of the Union Hotel by Mr. Enke and no pains will be spared by that gentleman to provide all the delicacies of the reason.

Mr. Stearns of Santa Barbara is visiting his daughter Mrs. F. T. Duhring.

The Paris exhibition of 1900 is to cost four millions sterling, and will cover an area of nearly two thousand acres.

The Misses Olsson of San Francisco were the guests of Mrs. Chas. Ohm of Embarcadero several days this week.

A delicate entree is made by grating ten small table carrots and putting them in a saucepan, with three ounces of butter. Let them simmer gently fifteen minutes, then add salt, pepper, a very small onion chopped fine, and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley. When the carrots are tender drain the butter from them and serve hot. This is a nice dish to serve with roast beef.

M. Nichol and family of San Francisco visited the Bates residence Sunday.

Cornmeal is one of the best cosmetics known. Keep a jar on the washstand and rub a handful well into the skin after washing with warm water; wash it off, dust out your eyebrows, and then see how satiny your face feels.

The flower festival held on Friday evening of last week brought out the largest crowd of people that has been seen in Union Hall for many years. The large hall presented a scene of beauty, being ornamented with beautiful floral designs, the most prominent being a ship from Embarcadero, which was really beautiful with its wealth of flowers. Others which attracted attention were a large floral rosette, the "Old Oaken Bucket" and the liberty bell. The programme of exercises consisted of a farce, recitations, vocal and instrumental music which was followed by dancing. Several artists from San Francisco assisted, among the number being Misses Olossen, who rendered several vocal selections, which showed to advantage their fine voices. The entire affair was well managed and much praise is due the committee having charge. The door receipts were large and quite a neat sum was realized by the ice cream, lemonade and candy booths. The money wll be used for the benefit of St. Francis' church.

The programme for the band concert contains a long list of attractions, any one of which alone is well worth the price of admission.

Edwin Lord of Embarcadero spent Saturday in San Francisco.

Strawberry saracen is a dish which rivals shortcake. Line the bottom of a china dish with thin slices of buttered toast. Fill the dish with strawberries closely packed. Sprinkle sugar generously over them and set in a slow oven for half an hour or so. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Mrs. W. A. Wright (nee Emma Hope) of Washington is visiting her mother Mrs. A. Hope.

Linen canvas in solid tones, sage brown-cardinal and art green, is another and newer trimming for little girls' gingham frocks.

Miss Rena Shattuck is projecting a new newspaper enterprise in Petaluma. She proposes to publish the "Petaluman." It will be a spicy paper of opinion, in the interest of silver and democracy and against Grover Cleveland for nomination to the presidency again.

The suspending effect is being revived for summer frocks, and is greatly smartened by the addition of lace tabs being turned over the straps on the shoulders. They make particularly pretty frocks for young girls.

Fish Sauce—Take one-quarter of a pint each of milk and cream, two eggs well beaten, salt, a dish of cayenne and the juice of a lemon. Put it over the fire and stir constantly until it begins to thicken. Serve with boiled fish.

Mrs. C. W. Engelbert of San Francisco visited Sonoma Sunday with a party of friends.

Among the smallest girls the empire waist vies with the blouse for first place among the smaller frocks and they are trimmed round or up and down with rows of insertion, and have jaunty bows of ribbon on each shoulder and short puffed sleeves.

Tomatoes en mayonnaise make a dish to tempt a dyspeptic. Take eight tomatoes of even size and peel with a sharp knife. Put them on the ice. Make a mayonnaise dressing. When the tomatoes are ice cold cut a small piece out of each one. Set the tomatoes on a flat dish with crisp lettuce leaves. Fill the heart of each tomato with mayonnaise dressing.

Misses Bertie and Gabriel Aguillon returned from San Francisco Saturday.

A very charming baby waist for a graduation frock has the blouse front made of the eyelet embroidery, which is so much the vogue just now. This embroidery is also used for the puff of the sleeve. The fair graduate may wear white satin slippers of white suede or kid Oxford ties and white silk stockings. Her gloves, if she must wear them, should be of white glace kid with three mother-o'-pearl buttons. They are embroidered on the back in the latest Paris points. Suede gloves are quite out of fashion. She should wear her hair parted in the middle, drawn demurely down over her ears and coiled low on the neck. If this style is too severe she may arrange her locks in any careless, simple fashion, being careful to avoid all hair ornaments and combs. Simplicity must be her watchword if she aspires to be a fashionable graduate. She should neither carry nor wear flowers during the graduation exercises.

John McDonnel, formerly an attache of this office but now in the employ of Francis & Valentine, job printers, was in town Sunday and paid this office a pleasant visit.

The most disagreeable feature of kitchenwork is undoubtedly the cleaning of kettles and pans in which food has been cooked. One woman has lightened even this task. As soon as a meat or a vegetable is removed from the vessel in which it has been cooked to its table dish she almost fills the cooking vessel with water, adds a pinch of borax and puts it on the back of the stove to heat slowly. When pot-washing time arrives her labor is merely nominal, so cleansing have the warm water and borax proved.

The City Sued.

Louis Breitenbach has brought suit in Recorder's Cheney's court against the City of Sonoma to recover $11.17 for work done on the public streets. The suit is the outcome of the Town Trustees refusing to audit his claim of $23.92 for hauling gravel for repairing Second-street West. His claim was cut down to $12.75. He now brings suit to recover the balance. This is the first time since the town was re-incorporated twelve years ago that it has had a law suit on its hands.

Miss Annie Perry returned home last Sunday after a two weeks' visit to the metropolis.

A simple way to remove grease spots from wall paper, caused by the head resting against the wall, is to hold a piece of clean blotting paper over the spot and press a moderately warm flat iron over it. Repeat the operation until all the grease is out.

In these house-cleaning days it is well to remind the mistress of that important ceremony of the efficacy of strong alum water as a vermin destroyer. Closets should be brushed with this solution in every crevice, and wooden bedsteads and loose wainscoting in old houses, which sometimes prove troublesome, may be similarly treated.

Teach children never to swallow the seeds of grapes, oranges, apples, pears or raisins. Fatal illness sometimes occurs from neglect of this care.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1895.

ON THE SCRAPBOOK PLAN.

Evangelist Moody Makes Up His Sermons From All Sorts of Material.

Moody's method of sermon making is original, says McClure's Magazine. In reality his sermons are never made—they are always still in the making. Suppose the subject is "Paul." He takes a monstrous envelope, capable of holding some hundreds of slips of paper, labels it "Paul," and slowly stocks it with original notes, cuttings from papers, extracts from books, illustrations, scraps of all kinds, nearly or remotely referring to the subject. After accumulating these, it may be for years, he wades through the mass, selects a number of the most striking points, arranges them and finally makes a few jottings in a large hand, and these he carries with him to the platform. The process of looking through the whole envelope is repeated each time the sermon is preached.

Partly on this account and partly because in delivery he forgets some points or disproportionately amplifies others, no two sermons are ever exactly the same. By this method also—a matter of much more importance—the delivery is always fresh to himself. Thus, to make this clearer, suppose that after a thorough sifting 100 eligible points remain in the envelope. Every time the sermon is preached these hundred are overhauled. But no single sermon, by a mere limitation of time, can contain, say, more than 70.

Hence, though the general scheme is the same, there is always novelty in the arrangement, for the particular 70 vary with each time of delivery. No greater mistake could be made than to imagine that Mr. Moody does not study for his sermons. On the contrary, he is always studying. When in the evangelistic field, the batch of envelopes, bursting with fatness, appears the moment breakfast is over, and the stranger who enters at almost any time of day, except at the hours of platform work, will find him with his litter of notes, either stuffing himself or his portfolios with new points he has picked up through the day. His search for these "points," and especially for light upon texts, Bible ideas or characters is ceaseless.

THE DECLINE OF WAR.

Pursuit of Property and Wealth the Main Cause Thereof.

The warlike temperament of man has been one of his most prominent characteristics from the earliest times. To live to fight has been the chief aim of most primitive peoples and has been a leading occupation of all civilized ones. Armies have grown in size, weapons have multiplied in number and destructiveness, battles have grown more and more deadly in action, while also becoming more merciful in their accompaniments, but still it is everywhere apparent that, in spite of these aids to carnage, the military spirit is on the decline.

May we not look for the cause of this in the enormously increased cost of warfare and its interference with the pursuit of prosperity and wealth? When the internal losses to a people become greater than those they can gain through conquest and annexation, they will be very loath to enter into a great conflict.

I am very far from saying that many other causes, such as ethics and a growing spirit of mercy, may not have contributed to this pacification of the nations, but is it not true that the cost of war is the chief preventive of war? If so, does it not illustrate the rule that the reactions set up by the vast technical improvement of methods of destruction have reacted on the primitive cause of the destruction—viz, the human will—and have lessened the cause by modifying the heart and brain of man?—Popular Science Monthly.

Westminster, Cal., March 21, 1894.—Some time ago, on awkening one morning, I found that I had rheumatism in my knee so badly that, as I remarked to my wife, it would be impossible for me to attend to business that day. Remembering that I had some of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in my store I sent for a bottle, and rubbed the afflicted parts thoroughly with it, according to directions, and within an hour I was completely relieved. One application had done the business. It is the best liniment on the market and I sell it under a positive guarantee. R. T. HARRIS. For sale by all dealers.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

Thackeray on John Paul Jones.

"Traitor, if you will, was M. John Paul Jones, afterward knight of his most Christian majesty's Order of Merit, but a braver traitor never wore a sword."

Such were almost the last words traced by the hand of Thackeray, and they show the astonishing misconception of Paul Jones which prevailed in the mind of one of the justest men that ever lived. Washington was a hero even to his enemies, yet Washington had actually held a commission in the British army, while Paul Jones could say to the American congress at the close of the war: "I have never borne arms under any but the American flag, nor have I ever borne or acted under any commission but that of the congress of America." This singular distinction against Paul Jones extended to the whole of the feeble naval force of the colonies. Soldiers were treated from the beginning as prisoners of war, while until Paul Jones forced an exchange of prisoners upon equal terms American sailors were formally declared to be "traitors, pirates and felons."—"Paul Jones," by Molly Elliot Seawell, in Century.

Diamond Cutting.

Not only is diamond cutting not a specially high paid occupation, but it is one involving a most humiliating system of espionage to the worker. Each man is held strictly to account for the stones he receives on going to work in the morning, and the count has to be carefully taken when the unfinished work is turned in at night to be locked up in a safe against the return of the workmen the next day. The possibilities of theft are great, though a dishonest workman knows that an attempt to dispose of an unfinished stone would bring suspicion upon him wherever the attempt was made.—New York Mercury.

A Close Resemblance.

"There are some points about your writings that much resemble Shakespeare," said the editor.

"Do you think so?" cried the delighted author, who had brought his contribution in with his own hand.

"Yes," the editor continued, "you employ almost the same punctuation marks."—Rockland Tribune.

P. is the best I ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., Aug. 14th, 1893.—I can speak in the highest terms of your medicine from my own personal knowledge. MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.—Dear Sirs—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer, of thirty years standing, and found great relief. It purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sore. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another bottle will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
